ANNEX A (CONT'D):

Remarks:

1. User must be careful with the entries; he must not lose or show it to unauthorized personnel and he is not allowed to make any corrections in it. Upon completion of the firing at firing range this entry booklet must be put in company orderly room. Losing this booklet is an offense and said soldier could be punished. Upon transfer or re-assignment the firing record is forwarded to the new unit.
2. Unit, company, rank and number of the weapon is entered with a pencil.
3. Weapon issued to the individual must first be zeroed in. The results of zeroing in of a round will be accurately recorded with a drawing of a target center (in the record on page 1). Entry will be accompanied with the date and signature of the person zeroing in the weapon. In the event a soldier receives another weapon, the zeroing in of the weapon will be carried out and entered on a new sheet in the record. The original entry of zeroing in will not be invalidated by crossing out. In the event it is used again the result of firing a round will be marked in with a colored pencil.
4. Results of firing will be recorded into appropriate columns which are vertical lines. Correctness of the entry will be verified by CO's signature in the "Remarks" column.
5. Repetition is entered in with a colored pencil.
6. Overall evaluation of the results in the individual types of firing will be carried out and recorded in accordance with "Plan for Training in Firing of Infantry Weapons."
